

Canyoning Coentral, Castanheira de Pêra

Quelhas River

From 38,5€

Description

Activity that implies the descent on foot of Quelhas River (Castanheira de Pêra), taking advantage of waterfalls, natural slides, rock progression, abseiling and several passages in the water. This small river runs along a steep valley whose riverbed, riverbanks and slopes are formed by impressive boulders that make this place almost inaccessible. For this reason, this valley still serves as a refuge for rare and unique plants and animals. In this river, the inhospitable and wild scenery (formed by countless waterfalls, lagoons and imposing rocks) are combined with the exuberant vegetation and the peculiar wildlife, which is worth the effort spent in carrying out this activity. To each participant, will be provided with the following material: wetsuit, neoprene socks, personal protective equipment (helmet, harness, descender), backpacks, and watertight containers. This is a small river with short sections, adequate for beginners. Has 6 spectacular places to perform abseiling with a height of 14 to 20 meters. In general, the progression is along the riverbed, inside or outside water and taking advantage of some natural rock slides. At the end there's the chance to do some jumps to the water and a small sliding.

Duration: about 5/6 hours.

Meeting point: 9:30 am at the entrance to Quelhas Riverwalkways, Coentral (Castanheira de Pêra).
